Angie goes Green at the Bedford Park Festival

Angie Bray, Conservative Parliamentary Candidate for Ealing Central & Acton joined the fun, with her partner Nigel at the Green Days Fete and Craft Fair, held on Acton Green, marking the beginning of this year's Bedford Park Festival. The two-week event is organised each year by St Michael and All Angels Church to celebrate Arts in the local community and to raise money for local charities and the repair and redecoration of the church itself.

Amongst the coconut-shy, the cake stalls and the champagne lottery, Angie and Nigel visited a number of local community group stalls. Bedford Park Society Chairman Peter Eversden showed her a new pamphlet produced by the Society to inform residents how they can make their properties more environmentally efficient – even if they are listed.

Angie also visited the stall run by the Safer Neighbourhood Team, where she discussed the impact that the recent hot weather has had on the number of burglaries as people open their windows in the heat. The SNT have been advising local residents on how to ensure that their houses are secure before going out, in an effort to tackle this crime.

Speaking after the event Angie said; "The weekend has been a fantastic start to the Bedford Park Festival. Local residents get the chance to get together and have some fun, discuss local issues and raise some money for good causes."
